

The Key to Another World

It started much like any other day, however this day was different. There ^{lived} ~~was~~ a girl called Ashley. She had long and wavy blond hair, blue eyes and she ^{was} ~~is~~ very kind. Her favourite thing to do was exploring. So one day, she went out (~~she went out the day that was different~~) into the woods, for her very first time. Excited but scared, she was determined to keep on going further into the woods, until she found something. Her mission was ~~strongly~~ successful.

She saw something in the distance. Something glowing. She took a few steps closer, and then a few more. Ashley finally found out it was a necklace. Though, it wasn't an ordinary necklace, and did little Ashley know it was a key. A key to a whole another world. A world that she dreamt of a few months ago. The turquoise and pink necklace looked familiar to Ashley, she tried to remember where she saw it but she couldn't, ~~and~~ she picked it up, put it around her neck and took it home.

While she was travelling back home, she felt different, she felt as if something or someone was calling her. Even though she looked back for a second, she needed to get back home (as it was getting dark) so she turned back round and ran home. As soon as she got home, she took the necklace off. At the corner of her eye, she sees the necklace getting dimmer until it wasn't glowing, Ashley couldn't get her eyes off the necklace.

"Ashley!! Dinner is ready," shouted Ashley's mother.

"I will be down in a sec!" replied Ashley.

Ashley quickly hid her necklace under her pillow and ran downstairs.

Early in the morning, Ashley snuck out with the necklace and she ran into the woods. She had her dream again. The dream about the other world, all made with her imagination. Ashley saw a glimpse of her necklace getting brighter. She knew what that meant. She was getting closer to the portal. Suddenly she found out of the ordinary, ~~and~~ she knew what it was.

Ashley rapidly checked the time on her watch. She had enough time to go in and out of the portal before her parents wake up. Her patience ran out and she jumped in...

What was waiting for her on the other side was unexpected. Everything she has dreamed about was there: peace for the world, everyone is happy, anything good you want to happen, happens and so on. It was unbelievable.

At the end she decided ~~to~~ her family and herself would live there, and they did.

THE

END